

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

10075399-021502

The present invention is devised to present various services to visitors in a place where many visitors gather. In the present invention, use

5 information such as positional information of a position where a personal digital assistant device of the user is sent intermittently from the personal digital assistant device to a service information distribution device, and the service information

10 distribution device stores the intermittently received use information in a history database as history data, and service information to be distributed is selected on the basis of the use information stored in the history database and the 15 selected service information is distributed to the personal digital assistant device.

20

25